JUNE 2019 NEWSLETTER

A Message from President Carmela Reali

At the General Meeting on May 16, 2019, The Recording Secretary, Melissa Worcester cast one vote for Anna Stankiewicz our newly elected Board Director. Anna will be installed at the June General Meeting. She is looking forward to working with the Board and helping wherever needed.

Come visit our new outdoor patio. Darlene Napolitano and her crew have worked very hard to make this happen. Check your newsletter as we have some fun activities planned for outdoors. It's beautiful.

The LaCantina will be closed on Tuesday evenings during June, July and August.

The Elvis Concert, sponsored by the Scholarship Committee was very well attended. So much fun and lots of great music. Thank you, Judy Anne Ferrante and her Scholarship Committee, for organizing this and a special thanks to Roy and Katie Guzman for volunteering their time also and for donating their salsa. It's nice to see our members working together.

Next month, June, the Scholarship winners will be announced and hopefully they will all be coming to read their essays. This is always a highlight; meeting them and listening to them. Please plan to come.

Kim Toppi has decided to step down as Charity Chair. She has done a great job this year along with her committee in raising money for Charity. If you know of anyone who would like to Chair this committee, please contact Darlene Napolitano at 899-5356. Thank you, Kim, for all your work and organizational skills.

I would like to welcome our newest members to the IHC: Kathy DiMatteo, Theresa Flaherty, Paul Viola, Stephen Hathorne, Donald & Kelly L'Heureux. Please enjoy the IHC and all we have to offer. As always, I would like to thank all the members for their continued support.

Cammy Reali, President

IHC Cultural Committee School Presentations

The Cultural Committee gave a Presentation to the South Portland Memorial Middle School as part of their International Day on May 8th. The presentation was a very positive experience for both the students and the Cultural Committee members. As part of program we also shared the baking and tasting of pizzelles, making and shaking tambourines, singing and dancing to "Funiculi, Funicula" complete with the tarantella and tambourines, teaching basic Italian words through flash cards, and indoor bocce lessons and participation.

On May 15th, Jim and Francie DiBiase backed up Sam Marcisso at Reiche School's third grade class during a question and answer session on the origins, history and real-life experiences of living in Portland's Little Italy. Naturally we treated the children to some homemade pizzelles after the session.

PLANT A TREE (PIANTA UN ALBERO)

We want to thank Marie Pardi for coming up with a great idea. She suggested that we ask for donations for buying trees to put as a barrier between our lot and the back of Shaw's, so that's what we are doing!

Please help us by giving to the cause and to help beautify our property. We are requesting that people donate $50. or more so we can start this project. We aren't sure how many trees we need at this point but really appreciate your help. Please make checks out the IHC and send to Italian Heritage Center, 40 Westland Avenue, Portland, Maine 04102. In the memo, please put Plant a Tree.

Health & Welfare submitted by Mary Keaney

If you know of any IHC members who are ill or recently deceased (including family members), and would like the IHC to send them or their family a get well card, sympathy card, or mass card, please have them call me. Please make sure that we have the correct mailing address as all cards will go directly to the recipient's home address.

Scholarship submitted by Judy Ferrante

We are encouraging you to attend the summer General Meetings to meet Scholarship Recipients. At this meeting they will read their essays. Each recipient will receive $1500. $750 each semester with receipt of school bill. This year's donors are The Germani Family, honoring their Dad Louis Germani, Anthony and Darlene Napolitano in honor of their beloved grandson Micky Chadbourne, and Dominic and Linda Reali.

For your information we have received nine Scholarship Applications. All applicants have a qualifying member at the IHC.

The scorers are Andrea Turley, Bruce Koharian, and Sue Taylor. They all have careers in education. They have been given an authentic scoring tool that acknowledges educational criteria to use on applications where identities are blackened to become nameless. Our goal was May 22, to have the scoring process completed.

Shortly after that recipients were notified.

The next General meeting Recipients will attend to read their speeches.

June 1, Employee Applications are due.

I want to thank so many of you for attending the fabulous Elvis Concert.

This group gave us a truly great and memorable Show. Elvis was the real deal, complete with his security entourage, handing out scarves and offering photo ops. And those Elvis moves. He serenaded us with many beloved Elvis classics. The audience loved it all.

I'm grateful for the members of the Scholarship Team, for all the help this year.

Also, thank you to Katie and Roy Guzman who offered their support with Guzman Salsa, setting up, in the kitchen and for sure the serving line and the bar. The Raffle tickets were sold by Anna Geary and Carlene Greaves. The 50/50 tickets were sold by Helen Scalia, and Linda Pierce.

Thank you to our wonderful Scholarship Team, Nicola Cox, Denise Davis, Judy Ann Ferrante, Linda Pierce, Cammy Reali, Helen Scalia, Andrea Turley

EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW ABOUT THE SANREMO MUSIC FESTIVAL, ITALY'S ANSWER TO EUROVISION

Sanremo is a key date in Italy's cultural calendar. Earlier issues of the Newsletter provided us with some interesting facts about the Sanremo Music Festival. Here are two more:

The rules:

These days, only one artist sings each song, but it must be a totally original entry which has never been performed in public before. The winner is decided by a jury and online public vote, meaning it has evolved into more of a reality TV show than a festival.

Big names:

The festival is a major event, with Italian and international celebrities gracing the red carpet and stage alongside the competitors. Last year, Robbie Williams, Biffy Clyro, Clean Bandit and Ricky Martin all performed at the opening ceremony, and in the past, the festival has hosted Queen, The Village People, Avril Lavigne and Cher. But perhaps the most controversial guest was burlesque dancer Dita von Teese in 2010, when she stripped on stage until her modesty was protected only by $2.5 million worth of diamonds!

Watch for more interesting Sanremo facts in subsequent Newsletters.

101 Reasons to be Proud Your Italian

Reason # 6 FOLKTALES

There is nothing more enchanting than a story from the old country. As do those from many other cultures, Italians have passed down the art of spinning a tale for generations, resulting in a legacy of stories reaching far back into the history of the land. While themes and plots are often universal, the Italian folktale has its own unique style and magic.

Such stories evolved before the era of the internet, television, radio, and even the printing press. Sitting around the table or relaxing in the fields after a hard day's work, Italians found that hearing a spoken tale was an exciting way to pass the time. It wasn't until the latter part of the nineteenth century that people throughout Italy began to collect the novelline of their culture in print. In Sicily, Giuseppe Pietrè's Fiabe, Novelle e Racconti Popolari Siciliani (Sicilian Fables, Stories, and Popular Tales) was one of the most extensive of these collections, with some three hundred narratives written in Sicilian dialect. Other regions had their scholars, including Carolina Coronedi-Berti in Bologna and Domenico Giuseppe Beroni, who recorded dozens of Venetian tales.

What emerges when one looks at these tales is an unmistakable style and beauty that are distinctly Italian. More often than not, the narrator is an important character; that role is usually given to a woman. In Pietrè's collection, the narrator is Agatuzza Messia, an old quiltmaker who, although illiterate, has a flair for the language of the people. When reading passages from her stories, you not only get a sense of the story but also a feeling of the manner in which these tales were originally passed on.

Unlike folklore in other countries, Italian folktales are rarely overtly violent and nearly all end harmoniously. Of course, love is a predominant theme. Whether it's a pig that turns into a king or a half-man who becomes whole, there is almost always an amorous uniting of man and woman. In the fiaba, or fairy tale, a mystical kingdom is invariably woven from words that excite the imagination.

The celebrated Italian novelist Italo Calvino has done a wonderful job of collecting, interpreting, and embellishing some of the best in his Italian Folktales, a must have volume for anyone with an imagination. This definitive collection takes Italy's favorite legends and the art of Italian storytelling to the level of and beyond the Brothers Grimm.

One of our favorite tales, which was adapted and abridged from Calvino's collection, is about a very smart young woman and a very lucky king. It's called "Catherine, Sly Country Lass."

There was a farmer who had a very intelligent daughter. When he found a solid gold mortar and wanted to present it to the king, Catherine knew the king would wonder where the pestle was: she was right. The king was impressed by Catherine's smarts, and ordered her to make shirts for a regiment of soldiers from a tiny bit of wool. Catherine, in return, sent a handful of fine threads back to the king, saying he must first make a loom from these before she could make the shirts. Back and forth went the interactions between the king and Catherine, each trying to top the other with their witty requests. When he told her to appear neither clothed nor naked, on a stomach neither full nor empty, not in a day or night, and neither on horseback or on foot, she appeared wearing a fishnet after eating an apple at daybreak, riding a goat. Finally, there was nothing to do but get married. On their wedding night, the king told Catherine she must never meddle in his court business, knowing that she was smarter than he was. Of course, she couldn't resist, and the king became very angry. He told her that she could take the thing she liked best of all from the palace, and with that return home to her father the next morning. That night at dinner, she made sure the king overindulged and passed out. While he was sleeping, she took the king and his throne to her father's house in the country. When he awoke the next morning, the king wondered what was going on. "You told me to take the thing I liked best of all and take it home, so I took you." the two lovers laughed, made up, and the king appeared with his wife in the court from that day on.

Now there's a story of which both Italian men and women can be proud of!
